CHAPTER XI.

THE person who had originated and who conducted Mrs. Deming's boarding house—famous for its fare—was, in fact, not Mrs. Deming at all. That good lady would pretty certainly have scored a failure if she had tried actively to manage such an establishment. She had never in her life known necessity for work of any kind or acquired the least skill in its doing. She had been bred in luxury and had never known any other way of living until a few months before Guilford Duncan went to take his meals at what was known as her "table."

She had lived in a spacious and sumptuously furnished suburban house near an eastern city until two years or so before the time of this story.

When Barbara Verne, her only sister's child, was born and orphaned within a single day the aunt had adopted her quite as a matter of course.

No sooner had Barbara ceased to be an infant in arms than she began to manifest strong and peculiar traits of character. Even as a little child she was wondered at as "so queer—so old fashioned, don't you know."

She had a healthy child's love for her dolls, and, though the persons around her had not enough clearness of vision to see that she was fruitfully and creatively imaginative in her peculiar way, her dolls' nursery was full of wonderful stories, known only to herself and the dolls. Every doll there had a personality, a history and a character of its own. Barbara was the Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, weak, imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has a gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weakness and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional endorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

intimate of them all—the confidential friend and companion, who listened to their imagined recitals of griefs and joys with a sympathetic soul, counseled them in a prematurely old way, chided them gently but firmly for their mistakes, commended good conduct whenever she discovered it in them and almost mercilessly rebuked such shortcomings as common sense should have spared them.

But notwithstanding the child's imaginative gift she was intensely practical in a quick witted way that often astonished those about her. She had an eager desire to learn domestic arts, and her peculiar conscientiousness in the doing of whatever she undertook to do usually resulted in a skill superior to that of her teachers.

She loved to haunt the kitchen, where her courtesy won even the cantankerous cook for a friend, and from her the girl learned so much of her art that the cook could teach her no more. In the laundry the good natured Irish woman who presided over that department of household economy gave her always so warm a welcome that the child came to think of the faithful woman as one of her choicest friends. Working with her over a little ironing board, Barbara quickly became expert in all the finer and more delicate operations of her art.

So Barbara educated herself upon lines which she deemed womanly. There was no art of kitchen or laundry or sewing room in which, as she grew older, she did not make herself the superior of the highly paid servants whose skill her aunt employed to perform such functions. For explanation she said only:

"I am to be a woman. I must know how to do all womanly things. If I don't know all that better than the servants do I must always be dependent upon servants. I think that would be humiliating."

In the same spirit she took up such school studies as she deemed proper to her womanhood and only such. But she gave to each a degree of conscience that always surprised her teachers. She had not the gift of learning easily, but her devotion was such that she learned thoroughly in spite of all the difficulties.

When she was only a dozen years old or so the little woman took upon herself the duties of housekeeper in her aunt's mansion and kept order there in a way that won something like local fame for herself. It was not art or intuition or rule that inspired her. It was temperment.

Absolute cleanliness was to her a religion, and the servant who fell in the remotest way short of that was quickly made to think of herself as an unregenerate sinner. Absolute neatness was another requirement which the budding little woman insisted upon with relentless persistence. Then again it seemed to her that there was no possible excuse for any cooking short of the best.

A few years later the aunt's husband met with misfortune and went west. Presently he died, and Barbara's aunt was widowed and impoverished at one and the same time.

Then it was that Barbara rose in the strength of her practical wisdom and met the emergency with all of the character that she had built up. Her aunt was helpless, so Barbara took matters into her own hands. She was nearly twenty years old then, and her capacities as a housekeeper had ripened

The Rise of Jimmie Johnson.

X.—"HOW'D YE DO IT, JIMMIE?"

Shortly Mr. Johnson was a multimillionaire. Cronies read about him, saying, "Well, I do declare!" One who knew him early said: "You wuz as pore as me. How'd you do it, Jimmie?" "Oh, I ADVERTISED," said he.

through use until she felt modestly confident of herself. "Besides," she argued, "there is nobody else to do things if I don't."

She persuaded her aunt to take a little house with a big sunny dining room, and there she offered to the young bachelors of the town—in her aunt's name—better meals than they could get at the pretentious hotel, and she charged them scarcely more than half the hotel rate.

One by one the best of the young men in the town were drawn to Barbara's table until the dining room was filled. After that any one who wished to join the circle must put his name upon a waiting list and bide his time till there should be a vacancy, for Barbara held that it would be unjust to crowd present boarders in order to take new ones, and she hated all injustice. The waiting list was always long, for the fame of Barbara's table was great.

Really it was her own skill that made her table famous. She hired a cook, of course, after her little business became prosperous, and sometimes for a brief while she trusted to the cook's skill. Then her conscience beset her because the breakfasts and dinners and suppers were not prepared in that perfection which alone could satisfy this conscientious little woman's soul. "You see, it isn't honest, aunty," she would say in explanation whenever she returned to the kitchen and gave personal attention to every detail. "We are charging these young gentlemen for their meals, and it seems to me dishonest if we give them less than the best that we can. They come to us because they have heard that we serve the best meals that can be had in Cairo. How mean and wrong it would be for us to trade upon that reputation and give them meals of an inferior quality! I simply can't get a cook who will do things at their best, and so I must do most of the cooking myself, and then I'll know it is well done."

She hired a "neat handed Phyllis" in a cambric gown—which Barbara insisted must be fresh and clean every day—to wait upon the table. She hired a handy negro boy to wash dishes, scrub and prepare vegetables under her own direction. She did all the more important part of the cooking herself, and the negro boy Bob simply worshipped the girl whom he always addressed as "Little Missie."

WOMEN ARRESTED

"Suffragettes" Come Into Further Conflict With the London Police.

MADE RAID ON PARLIAMENT

Women Suffragists Display Anew Their Determination to Force Their Measure to the Front.

Led by Lady Barbeton They Storm the House of Commons and Many Are Arrested.

London, March 21.—The women suffragists attempted a demonstration and raid on parliament yesterday afternoon more important and more numerous than any of their previous efforts. The police, however, had timely warning and made preparations that resulted in making the demonstration somewhat ineffective. The only result was some amusing disorderly scuffles and the arrest of nearly seventy suffragists who were at once liberated on bail.

Previous to the demonstration an indignation meeting, which was largely attended by the so-called "suffragettes" and their friends was held at Caxton hall, where the speakers denounced the house of commons for stifling the Dickinson women suffrage bill.

The raid was led by Lady Barbeton, who was assisted by the most prominent women who took part in the previous raids. The women drove up in wagons, and after promenade before the houses of parliament, stormed the entrance of the house of commons, where the police reinforcements, drawn up for the occasion, waited the onslaught and drove the women back. After this first rebuff the women made a second determined attempt to penetrate the police cordon, but all to little purpose. In accordance with instructions the police employed against the women as little force as possible.

At a late hour last evening the suffragists reassembled at Caxton hall and, amid the greatest enthusiasm, passed a resolution to send another deputation to the premier and to renew their demonstrations before parliament. Accordingly another move was made against the house of commons, the disorderly scenes were repeated on a smaller scale and several further arrests were made.

Bridge Builders Called on to Face Indictments in Illinois.

Freeport, Ill., March 21.—An alleged pooling arrangement whereby a dozen bridge companies combined, it is said, and allotted certain territory to each other, has resulted in the returning of several indictments by a grand jury after being in session nearly three weeks. William H. Shons, a wealthy bridge builder of Freeport, was indicted on a charge of being in conspiracy to prevent competition. There is also a bribery indictment against Shons and his brother. Several bridge companies, including a big concern at Clinton, Ia., and a man at Madison, Wis., are on a board that let a $12,000 contract to Shons were also indicted.

Word From the Far North.

Portland, Ore., March 21.—Letters from Ernest Leffingwell and Elmer Mikkelsen containing the first news from the Anglo-American polar expedition since the expedition left Alaska were received here yesterday by H. A. Andree, assistant in the local weather bureau. The letters were dated November 21 and 23 and were carried over the ice fields to Point Barrow, where they were delivered to the Canadian mounted police. Mr. Leffingwell states in his letter that the Duchess of Bedford lies frozen in solid ice about 200 miles off Point Barrow and that the preparations were at that time almost completed for starting on an expedition into the unknown country lying north of this continent.

TOOK SUDDEN TURN

Harry Thaw Now Stands to Face the Decision of a Commission in Lunacy.

DREADED BLOW HAS FALLEN

The Thing of Which the Prisoner Has Been in Terror Since He Killed White Is In Sight.

Mr. Jerome by a Sudden Change of Tactics Diverts the Whole Course of the Trial.

New York, March 21.—The blow which Harry Kendall Thaw has been in terror of ever since his trial for the murder of Stanford White began, has fallen. District Attorney Jerome did not make formal application for the appointment of a commission in lunacy, but in an impassioned speech he appealed to the conscience of the court, asserting that Thaw as he sits daily in court, is unable intelligently to advise his counsel and is believed by everyone who has watched and come into contact with him to be insane.

Mr. Jerome asserted that his own alienists—the six men who testified for the state—were convinced when they had considered all the facts in connection with the case, that Thaw was of unsound mind. Mr. Jerome dramatically accused the counsel for the defense of concealing the testimony which, if presented to the court, would make the continuance of the trial a crime. So earnestly did he plead that Justice Fitzgerald last evening dismissed the jury until Friday morning and adjourned court until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when he will consider whatever evidence either side has to offer and decide whether the trial shall go on or whether a commission in lunacy shall be appointed to pass upon Thaw's mental condition.

The climax of the nine-weeks' trial was precipitated by the action of the defense in calling to the stand Dr. Allen McLane Hamilton, the alienist, who was first called into the case by Thaw's original lawyers, but who was dismissed together with them, when he reported that Thaw was suffering from a form of insanity which might never be cured. It was the intention of Mr. Delmas to interrogate Dr. Hamilton only with reference to four visits he made to Thaw in June and July last. Mr. Jerome promptly objected to this course. He said if Dr. Hamilton was to testify at all, he must tell everything he knew in connection with the case, including the defendant's family history.

The argument which ensued became so pertinent to the question of the present sanity or insanity of the defendant that Justice Fitzgerald ordered the jury to retire from the room. Then the discussion took on a broader range, which resulted in the court's determination before proceeding further to have presented to him the facts which the district attorney asserted had been withheld from the jury by the defense and which he had been unable to give to the court in strictly legal form.

"If the real facts were known," declared Mr. Jerome, "I have no right to be here trying this man for his life. But the knowledge I have cannot be put in legal form before the jury. It is mostly hearsay, but if I could get the facts before you they would shock and horrify the conscience of the court and instantly this case would be stopped. So deeply have I been impressed with this, that I have served notice on the counsel of record that if when this trial is concluded I find that they were in possession of facts which I believe to be in their possession, I shall call the matter to the attention of the appellate division of the supreme court. I feel very bitterly about this matter. There is not a man who has watched this defendant sitting here at this table who does not know that as he sits there he is incapable of advising counsel. Thus under the statutes, it becomes the duty of the court to stop the proceedings."

When the trial adjourned Hartridge and O'Reilly, of Thaw's counsel, professed the greatest pleasure over the turn of affairs.

"The district attorney has acknowledged himself beaten," said Mr. Hartridge. "We can combat the lunacy commission. In the meantime the district attorney has acknowledged that he believes Thaw was insane when he shot White. That ought to give us an acquittal."

District Attorney Jerome was manifestly pleased with the idea of a commission. He immediately set to work preparing affidavits with a view to placing before Justice Fitzgerald all the testimony he has been unable to get before the jury.

Thaw is said to be cheerful over the situation. "If I'm insane, who is sane?" he is said to have asked. "I'm ready for the 'bug' commission."

GAS GOSSIP

Owners of Seymour Plant Have Trouble Elsewhere.

As stated by this paper several days ago the light plant at Madison, owned by the same people that own the Seymour plant, is in hard lines as the one here is. It is our information that the Madison plant has been advertised to be sold tomorrow, the day before the date set for the sheriff's sale of the Seymour plant.

From a Cincinnati dispatch we infer that the light plant at Xenia, Ohio, owned by the same people was also up for sale, but a bond holder makes application to the Federal Court at Cincinnati for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the Xenia plant. This bondholder in the application for a receiver charges that the proceeds of the Xenia plant have been diverted from proper channels to pay high salaries to the men who have been controlling it, and that through failure to pay taxes and to keep the property in good repair, the plant was in danger of being sold for taxes and the loss of franchise rights. A temporary injunction was issued against the Xenia sheriff, the Western Gas and Investment Co. and others, forbidding any disposition of the plant or its earnings pending the suit for receiver.

J. H. Brown, president of these corporations, gave out this statement in his Chicago office Tuesday.

"The allegations of Mrs. Bird that the company has been mismanaged are absurd. She is one of many disgruntled bondholders. The fall in business was due entirely to the discovery of natural gas in the region which turned the tide of patronage to the new gas well. The bondholders' committee is composed of Emile C. Boisot, vice president of the First Trust and Savings bank of Chicago; M. C. Simmons, president of the First National bank of Aurora; and M. C. Clancy."

The date for the sale of the Seymour plant by the sheriff is next Saturday, but whether or not any action to thwart this sale will be taken no one here seems to know. If any action is taken it will have to be done soon.

These same Chicago men are said to control light plants at Rochester, Minn., Baraboo, Wis., Nebraska City, Neb., and other places, and the present indications point to the practice of "high finance" methods in the handling of the entire string of properties.

Fine Showing.

A representative of the REPUBLICAN witnessed the rehearsal of "The County Chairman" last night and was delighted with the excellent work of the players. This is the most difficult play ever undertaken by the Seymour Dramatic Club but we feel confident in saying that it will be the best. The characters are all carefully chosen and each one does fine in rehearsal. "The County Chairman" is one of George Ade's best comedies and its presentation here by home talent should and will bring out a crowded house.

Mr. Goehring has made a number of warm friends among the railroad boys and others during his stay here.

Splendid Rehearsal.

The rehearsal of the County Chairman at the Seymour opera house last evening was in many respects the best yet. Manager Johnson and every member of the cast is working hard and a few of the finishing touches are being made here and there wherever slight changes seemed advisable. Mr. Johnson has asked a few persons of experience to attend the rehearsals at different times that he might get their opinions on important points in the production of the play. Those taking part in the play are well pleased with Mr. Johnson's management and the very great pains that he is taking to have the play put on right. As a result they are encouraged to give their very best efforts and from now on will be right down to business at every rehearsal. There will probably be three more rehearsals before the play is put on next Tuesday night.

Auditor Billheimer also notified all the insurance companies doing business in the state that under a new law they are required to file with the auditor complete vouchers for all money paid out.

Spring Is Here.

Today, March 21st, the sun crosses the line, the days and nights are now of equal length with the days gradually growing longer. Spring is here and the grass everywhere is beginning to take on new life. In a few weeks the pastures will be ready for the stock to be turned out and the yards and lawns about the city will be covered with a beautiful coat of green. In about six weeks from now the lawn mowers will be brought out and the already overworked men will not have a minute to rest when they are about the house. There will probably be some light snows yet, as there usually are after this date. There may be snows for two or three weeks yet and once in a great while, perhaps not once in fifteen years, we have a little snow in the early part of May, or six weeks after the sun crosses the line. There will be some light freezes yet but doubtless the ground will not be frozen solid any more till another winter comes around.

Everywhere we see the buds getting ready to burst open and some of the earliest flowering plants are already in bloom. On a lilac bush that we noticed this morning the leaves were almost an inch long. By Sunday, if the weather remains like it has been for the past few days, there will be many interesting things to note by the lovers of nature who enjoy taking a walk and observing the changes that are now slowly but surely taking place at this doubtless the most interesting season of the year.

TRUST COMPANIES

Not So Much Restricted as the State Auditor Believed.

Just at the close of the Legislature the State Auditor gave out an interview in which he said that the Attorney-General had held that Trust Companies organized under the Indiana law were not authorized to do a general banking business. But now it appears that that opinion was premature.

The Attorney-General did however on February 7 reply to the State Auditor saying that in his opinion trust companies "organized under the act of March 4, 1893, and the amendatory acts thereof have no right to do a general banking business." But on March 12 Auditor Billheimer addressed another letter to the Attorney-General asking him five specific questions with a request to review his former opinion. Mr. Bingham sums up his answers (the answers suggest the questions) as follows:

1. It is therefore my opinion that a trust company may receive deposits and allow them to be checked against, and pay such checks that may be given by depositors to third parties in the same manner as checks are usually paid by banks.
2. I do not think that trust companies have any other banking powers than those above indicated.
3. A trust company may issue drafts to third parties to the extent that it amounts to issuing its check upon a bank holding a deposit of such trust company, in payment of a check drawn on the account of a depositor in such trust company.

4. A trust company may loan its moneys and funds on personal securities and buy commercial papers, as above indicated.
Under this opinion it does not appear that the trust companies will be required to make any change in their methods of doing business, but can go ahead with such banking business as they have been doing.

The Blade.

A copy of the Blade a new weekly paper edited and published by Lynn Faulkner, Jr., is on our desk and contains a number of interesting features. It is interesting from the fact that it illustrates the growth and prosperity of Seymour in being able to support four weekly newspapers and three dailies. It is interesting because of the youthfulness of the editor and proprietor. And again it is interesting because it is interesting. It is no 2x4 paper to begin with but on the other hand No. 1 of volume one is about 3x4 and Editor Faulkner promises to enlarge the same as rapidly as the patronage of the paper will demand.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Three Women Came Near Losing Lives at Railroad Crossing.

Mrs. George Brocker and Mrs. Ed Crane, of this city, and Mrs. Arthur Compton, of New Albany, came near losing their lives Wednesday evening at the Railroad crossing at O'Brien street and Cincinnati avenue. The three ladies were out driving and started across the tracks from the south side of the B. & O. S-W. just at dusk, or about 6:30 in the evening. They noticed a lot of cars standing on the Southern Indiana railroad transfer tracks on either side of the driveway when, as the ladies say, they called to a man whom they saw with a lantern and asked him if they could cross. The man hailed happened to be Mr. Carpenter, a B. & O. S-W. car inspector. He told them to drive ahead but to be careful when they went to cross at Second street. It seems that Mr. Carpenter was wholly unaware that the Southern Indiana engine was on the transfer track and simply made a mistake. Just as the horse got on the track the train crew started to make a coupling. Mrs. Compton, who was driving, hollered out to stop the horse and about the same instant the car struck the buggy and pushed it against another car. The ladies were all thrown out backwards over the seat and more or less injured. Mrs. Brocker has been suffering intensely since the accident and may be slightly injured internally but none of the injuries are considered necessarily dangerous. The ladies are all confined to their beds and are receiving medical attention. Mrs. Compton is suffering from a sprained hip and from bruises. Mrs. Crane seems to have struck on her head and shoulders. Her hip is also bruised. Mrs. Compton's husband has been notified of the accident and is expected here soon.

The car was stopped about four or five feet before striking the other car and the horse and buggy were in this narrow space. It is said that it was necessary to pull the train up to get the horse and buggy out. The horse, which is said to be a very gentle one, was hired from Hopewell's livery stable.

The remains of Marion Newcomb, who died at Columbus on Monday evening, were brought here this morning and taken to Brownstown on the accommodation where funeral services were to be conducted by the Rev. Among those in the funeral party were: Matthias Marquart, Geo. Newcomb, William E. Newcomb, Floyd Newcomb, Joe Newcomb, John Newcomb, Rev. Taylor, Sadie Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. F. Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. Zephia Wilson, the two latter of New York City and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hurmen. Mr. Newcomb, who was formerly a resident of Brownstown, was running the ferry at that place more than forty years ago, or shortly after the close of the war. He was wellknown among the older people of the county.

Full amount paid may be withdrawn after 2 years. This bond affords a splendid medium for securing an income after a period of years. For instance, by paying $37.69 each year for 20 years, you will then be paid $100 each year for 20 years.

Kirby Registered Accumulative Bonds

Issued in denominations of $500 and up, in even hundreds, and are purchased on installment payments. Bonds mature in 10, 15 and 20 years. The rates are as follows for a $1000 bond. For example, in purchasing a 20 year bond for $1,000, a payment of $28.80 is made each year for 20 years, or a total of $576. The stockholder then receives $1,000 in cash. Payments may be discontinued at any time, and should the purchaser wish to withdraw his money before the maturity date of the bond, liberal cash surrender values have been provided.

All bonds issued by the Company are its direct contract obligations and are secured by its entire assets. The Company is regarded as the largest corporation of its kind in the Middle West, and operates extensively in Indiana and Ohio. Its charter is limited by law to the buying and selling of real estate, thus making these bonds absolutely the safest investment on the market today. The Company at present has over 12 dollars of assets for every dollar of outstanding bonds.

CALLED ON TO EXPLAIN

Former Treasurer of American Mutual Insurance Society Charged With Subornation of Perjury.

He Is Asked to Explain to the Court the Disappearance of $150,000 of Society's Funds.

Goshen, Ind., March 21.—The trial of Richard C. Barney of Elkhart for alleged subornation of perjury has begun in the Elkhart circuit court. The defendant will be obliged to explain the disappearance of $150,000 which it is said should have been in the treasury of the American Mutual Insurance society when that concern failed a few months ago.

BIG STRIKE IN SIGHT

East Chicago Steel Plants on Point of Closing Down.

Hammond, Ind., March 21.—Unless a compromise is reached tonight the East Chicago plant of the Republic Iron and Steel company and the Interstate Iron and Steel company may be closed down for an indefinite period. Late yesterday afternoon a conference between representatives of the 2,000 strikers and the officials was held, but the effort to bring about an adjustment of the difficulty was unsuccessful. The strikers, who are common laborers, quit work Tuesday to enforce a demand for an increase of 25 cents a day in wages. Previous to the strike they had been receiving $1.75 a day. Last night the strikers paraded the streets of East Chicago, where the plant is located. The men are in an angry mood, and a number of special policemen have been sworn in to assist in maintaining order.

Thirty-five hundred men employed by the Inland Steel company are reported to be on the point of joining the strikers. Should these men quit work it will bring the number of idle men employed in the iron and steel industry in East Chicago up to 5,000.

Third Trial of Man Already Twice Convicted of Murder.

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 21.—Judge O'Rourke of Allen county has appointed Charles W. Watkins, former judge of Huntington county, to try the case of Charles Dunn for the murder of Alice Cothrell in this county in 1901. It will be the third trial of the defendant, who has been twice convicted with the penalty of life imprisonment, but who has secured a reversal on appeal to the supreme court. Judge S. M. Hench will assist the prosecution. S. M. Morris and Henry Colerick have been appointed to defend Dunn at the expense of the county. The date for the trial has not yet been appointed.

Astonished the Court.

Greenfield, Ind., March 21.—In the trial of Walter Fisk, accused of passing a forged check, the prosecuting witness is his former "chum," Joseph E. Wood, now serving a sentence in the Indiana reformatory, growing out of the same offense. The trial has been in progress for a week, and much interest attaches to the case. Wood was greeted with applause which astounded the court when he testified that he had served one year of his term and was glad of it, as he thought the punishment had done him good.

State Encampment G. A. R.

Indianapolis, March 21.—In order that National Commander R. B. Brown of the G. A. R., may be at the Indiana state encampment "in the midst of things," the state department has sent out general orders to the effect that the date of the state encampment to be held at Fort Wayne has been changed, beginning one day later and ending one day later than was planned originally. The encampment will be held May 22, 23 and 24, instead of May 21, 22 and 23, as announced originally.

Child's Horrible Death.

Anderson, Ind., March 21.—While Mrs. Ed Lawson was at a neighbor's the clothing of her five-year-old daughter caught fire from a cookstove. The child ran into the yard ablaze, where her mother found her. Picking up the girl, Mrs. Lawson plunged her into a rain-barrel, extinguishing the flames. The child's flesh was cooked to a crisp and death soon came.

Fell Between the Cars.

South Bend, Ind., March 21.—J. F. Taylor, a brakeman on the Lake Shore railroad, living at Elkhart, fell between the cars at Lydick and was instantly killed. He was thirty-five years old, and leaves a widow and family.

Aged Man Ends Long Illness.

Brookville, Ind., March 21.—Timley Jones, a pioneer, and a highly respected and influential citizen of this county, committed suicide by cutting his throat. He was eighty years old and had been sick all winter.

The winds of March have no terror to the user of DeWitt's Carbonized Witch Hazel Salve. It quickly heals chapped and cracked skin. Good too for boils and burns, and undoubtedly the best relief for piles. Sold by all druggists.

NO REWARD FOR VOTE BUYING

Supreme Court Turns Down Claim of Crawfordville Attorney.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—The Indiana supreme court handed down an important construction of the statute providing for the payment of a reward of $100 for each conviction of a person who sells his vote. Under the old law a man who sold his vote could be fined and imprisoned and the person who bought his vote could turn states evidence and, on conviction of the voter, obtain the reward. Finley P. Mount, an attorney at Crawfordville, obtained the conviction of thirty-six persons charged with selling their votes. He claimed a reward of $3,600, but the case was appealed to the supreme court. It was shown that Mr. Mount induced one of the vote buyers to make affidavits against the men who sold their votes and that he promised to "treat him right" in dividing the reward. After obtaining the thirty-six convictions, Mr. Mount gave his witness $100 as his share of the reward. The supreme court, however, held that it is against public policy to permit anyone who buys votes to take advantage of his own wrong by recovering a reward for wrongdoing to which he was a party.

Indiana coal-carrying railroads have rescinded their order calling for an advance of 10 cents a ton in freight on all coal hauled out of this state by them. It is the understanding now there will be no advance during the ensuing "coal year," which begins April 1. J. C. Kolsem of Terre Haute, president of the Indiana Operators' association, called at the office of the railroad commission with the following telegram from E. J. Knickerbocker, coal traffic manager of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois and Evansville & Terre Haute roads: "There will be no advance in coal rates to Chicago during this coal year." While no other roads have been heard from, it is presumed by the railroad commissioners that Mr. Knickerbocker has spoken for all the coal-carrying roads, and that there will be no need for further action to prevent the roads from putting the proposed advance into effect. This information will lift a burden from the minds of the operators, miners and members of the commission, who were afraid that the proposed advance of 10 cents a ton on coal hauled out of the state was a forerunner to a general advance on coal consigned to Indiana points.

Colonel J. R. Fesler, adjutant general of the Indiana department of the Grand Army of the Republic, declares that the Grand Army posts throughout the state are indignant over the treatment of the old soldiers regarding the fixing of the date for the unveiling of the Lawton monument here on May 30. They are passing resolutions protesting against it, and it is their present intention to ask President Roosevelt not to attend the ceremonies. No incident has stirred the veterans so deeply in recent years. It is said that thousands of them are indignant over the treatment their representatives are said to have received from Governor Hanly. The latter's friends declare, however, that he assented to the date because he was told that President Roosevelt could not come any other time.

One state official said today that the acts of 1907 will make the second largest volume ever turned out for similar purposes by the state of Indiana. There were nearly 1,000 pages in the acts two years ago because of the passage of the codification commission's bills. The acts this time will make over 700 pages, and it is said that only one other session enacted more bills into laws.

Coal Man Punished.

Omaha, Neb., March 21.—S. E. Howell, president of the Omaha Coal exchange, has been sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and serve six months in the county jail. The sentence was imposed by Judge Sutton of the district court, before whom Howell was convicted of conspiracy in restraint of trade. He, with fifty other members of the coal exchange, was indicted last fall by the county grand jury on the allegation of maintaining a trust, to fix and control prices on coal. The case was appealed to the supreme court.

Pueter Talks Out.

Washington, March 21.—A. D. Pueter, who gave his residence as the Multnomah county jail, Oregon, where he has served six months of a two-years' sentence for land frauds, was a witness for the government in the Hermann trial here. Mr. Pueter gave with startling directness the full details of the difficulties and cost which had attended his efforts to obtain patents to twelve homesteads in the Cascade forest reserve now known as the "Eleven-Seven" frauds in Oregon.

Peasant Uprising Spreads.

Berlin, March 21.—A dispatch from Bucharest says the peasant uprising has already spread over the whole of upper Moldavia. In spite of all precautions the vandalism is spreading. It is the purpose of the peasants to drive out the Jewish lessees of the extensive holdings of absentee landlords and to seize the lands that the peasants rent from the lessees and upon which they are entirely dependent.

BUSINESS COLLEGES ARE FAILURES

THE WORLD'S LEADING COMMERCIAL SCHOOLS
FOUNDED 1862

Small cities and towns, because:
1. There is not a sufficient population to support a good school.
2. Such schools are usually conducted by persons who are not qualified, or who make it a practice to travel about and de-tract their patrons.
3. There are few if any opportunities for their graduates to secure employment in such localities.
4. The THOROUGH business colleges are located in the larger cities and are conducted by persons who are qualified.
5. The graduates of business colleges in small cities or towns can not secure employment in large cities when thrown in competition with the THOROUGH graduates of high-class schools, as business men have no time to experiment with incompetents. Therefore, be wise. Send for the finest 68-page catalogue ever issued by a commercial school, before deciding to throw away your money for a worthless training at some cheap school.
